

Vancouver-based KIMBO Design wins in International Summit Creative Competition

Kimbo Design of Vancouver has won the bronze award in the self-promotion category of the 2006 Summit Creative Awards competition.

Based in Portland, Oregon, the Summit Creative Awards recognizes creativity by small and medium sized advertising agencies and other creative groups around the world with annual billings under $25 million, in print, broadcast, emerging media, online advertising, marketing materials, direct mail, political, corporate video, public service, best idea never produced, industry self-promotion and student competition.

Kimbo Designs' winning entry, a holiday gift to their clients, was a wine opener emblazoned with their message. "Even during the busy holiday season, clients were quick to contact us and convey their appreciation for the gifts," said founder and manager Kim Pickett.

Kim Pickett, founder and manager of Kimbo Design of Vancouver and her Bronze award in the 2006 Summit Creative Awards. She won third place for the best self-promotion in the small and medium size advertising agencies and other creative groups.